Detailed Breakdowns

Every metric in full — what it measures, how it is measured, how to read it, and the data behind it.

Readability

Flesch Reading Ease		64.0 · Standard
WHAT IT MEASURES	How easy your prose is to read, on a 0–100 scale where higher is easier.
HOW IT MEASURES	$206.835 - 1.015 \times (\text{words per sentence}) - 84.6 \times (\text{syllables per word})$.
HOW TO INTERPRET	90+ is very easy; 60–70 is mainstream fiction; below 50 reads as difficult. Most commercial novels sit 60–80.
LEARN MORE	Wikipedia — Flesch–Kincaid
Grade Level (FK)		9.9
WHAT IT MEASURES	The US school grade a reader needs to follow the prose (Flesch–Kincaid).
HOW IT MEASURES	$0.39 \times (\text{words per sentence}) + 11.8 \times (\text{syllables per word}) - 15.59$.
HOW TO INTERPRET	Most commercial and YA fiction lands at grade 5–8; literary fiction often 7–10. Lower is more accessible, not better.
LEARN MORE	Wikipedia — Flesch–Kincaid
Grade Level (ARI)		10.4
WHAT IT MEASURES	A grade estimate built from characters per word and words per sentence (ARI).
HOW IT MEASURES	$4.71 \times (\text{characters per word}) + 0.5 \times (\text{words per sentence}) - 21.43$.
HOW TO INTERPRET	Read it alongside the other grades; a wide spread between them signals an uneven register worth a look.
LEARN MORE	Wikipedia — Automated Readability Index
Grade Level (CLI)		8.8
WHAT IT MEASURES	A character-based grade level that ignores syllables (Coleman–Liau).
HOW IT MEASURES	$0.0588 \times (\text{letters per 100 words}) - 0.296 \times (\text{sentences per 100 words}) - 15.8$.
HOW TO INTERPRET	Useful as a cross-check on the syllable-based scores; large disagreement points to unusual word or sentence shapes.
LEARN MORE	Wikipedia — Coleman–Liau Index
Grade Level (Fog)		12.8
WHAT IT MEASURES	Years of formal education needed, weighting long words heavily (Gunning Fog).
HOW IT MEASURES	$0.4 \times (\text{words per sentence} + 100 \times \text{polysyllabic-word ratio})$.
HOW TO INTERPRET	Fiction usually reads 6–10. A high Fog with a normal FK means long words, not long sentences, are the load.
LEARN MORE	Wikipedia — Gunning Fog Index
Grade Level (SMOG)		11.5
WHAT IT MEASURES	A grade estimate driven by the density of polysyllabic words (SMOG).
HOW IT MEASURES	$3.1291 + 1.043 \times \sqrt{(\text{polysyllables} \times 30 / \text{sentences})}$.
HOW TO INTERPRET	SMOG is stable on longer texts and tends to run a little higher than FK. Treat the cluster of grades as a range.
LEARN MORE	Wikipedia — SMOG
Readability Volatility		±13.7
WHAT IT MEASURES	How consistent your reading ease is from scene to scene.
HOW IT MEASURES	Standard deviation of each scene's Flesch Reading Ease (scenes of 50+ words).
HOW TO INTERPRET	Under ±10 is steady; ±20+ means some scenes read much harder or easier than others — intentional for tense beats, a red flag if not.

Though in many natural objects, whiteness refiningly enhances beauty, as if imparting some special virtue of its own, as in marbles, japonicas, and pearls; and though various nations have in some way recognised a certain royal preeminence in this hue; even the barbaric, grand old kings of Pegu placing the title “Lord of the White Elephants” above all their other magniloquent ascriptions of dominion; and the modern kings of Siam unfurling the same snow-white quadruped in the royal standard; and t...

30+ Word Sentences24.6%

WHAT IT MEASURES	The share of sentences longer than 30 words.
HOW IT MEASURES	$\text{Sentences over 30 words} \div \text{total sentences} \times 100$.
HOW TO INTERPRET	A few percent is normal. A high share can tire readers and often hides sentences that want splitting.

Sentence Autocorrelation0.25

WHAT IT MEASURES	Whether a sentence's length predicts the next one's.
HOW IT MEASURES	Lag-1 autocorrelation of sentence lengths (−1 to +1).
HOW TO INTERPRET	Near 0 is ideal — lengths vary freely. High positive means long runs of similar-length sentences (a droning cadence).

Paragraph Length SD88.9 words

WHAT IT MEASURES	How much your paragraph lengths vary.
HOW IT MEASURES	Standard deviation of per-paragraph word counts.
HOW TO INTERPRET	Some spread is healthy — mixing short beats with fuller passages. Very low SD makes the page look uniform and heavy.

Paragraph Cadence0.25

WHAT IT MEASURES	Whether a paragraph's size predicts the next one's — the page's cadence.
HOW IT MEASURES	Lag-1 autocorrelation of paragraph lengths (−1 to +1).
HOW TO INTERPRET	Under 0.10 reads as varied; 0.40+ means long stretches of same-size paragraphs (blocky, monotone page rhythm).

Dialogue Ratio21.5%

WHAT IT MEASURES	The share of your words that are spoken inside quotation marks.
HOW IT MEASURES	$\text{Words within quotes} \div \text{total words} \times 100$.
HOW TO INTERPRET	Dialogue-heavy books (40%+) read fast; description-led literary work often sits 15–25%. Neither is better — genre decides.

Declarative

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

The share of your sentences that are plain statements — the narrative backbone.

Sentences ending in a period (no ? or !) that carry a finite verb ÷ total sentences × 100.

Most prose runs 70–90% declarative. Below ~65% means questions, exclamations, or fragments are crowding out the statements; 95%+ can read flat and unvaried.

71.0%

Questions

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

The share of sentences that ask something.

Sentences ending in a question mark ÷ total sentences × 100.

A few percent is normal. 8%+ is interrogative-heavy — natural in introspective or mystery voices, wearing in excess. Near 0% can feel like no one in the book ever wonders.

6.7%

Exclamations

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

The share of sentences that end on an exclamation mark.

Sentences ending in ! ÷ total sentences × 100.

Under 2% is restrained — modern prose keeps exclamations rare so they still land. 5%+ reads breathless; most can become a strong verb or a beat of action instead.

Tense Consistency

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

How steadily your scenes hold a single grammatical tense.

Share of scenes whose dominant tense matches the book's dominant tense (past vs present), over scenes with enough tense signals to judge.

95%+ is solid; 85–95% is worth a scan; under 85% means several scenes slip between past and present — usually an accidental mid-draft drift. The scenes against the grain are listed below.

POV Consistency

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

How consistently your scenes stay in one grammatical person.

Share of scenes whose dominant person (first / second / third) matches the book's dominant POV, over scenes with enough pronoun signals to judge.

95%+ is steady; under 85% means some scenes shift person (a first-person book with third-person scenes, say). Deliberate in multi-POV structures; a red flag when unintended. Deviating scenes are listed below.

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

LEARN MORE

How your book's words split across its three acts — the large-scale shape of the story.

Chapters are divided into three equal groups by position; each group's words are summed and shown as a percentage of the whole book.

Classic three-act structure runs roughly 25% / 50% / 25%. A middle well over half is the 'saggy middle' — the most common structural problem; a thin final act can make the ending feel rushed.

Cinderella

The emotional tone of your prose over the book — a story-shape line that rises when the writing turns positive and falls when it turns dark.

Each scene's words are matched against a valence lexicon (scored -3 to +3) and averaged, then centered on this book's own baseline so 0 means 'typical for this book'. The shape is read from the rises and falls.

Most stories follow one of six basic shapes (Reagan/Vonnegut): Rags to Riches, Tragedy, Man in a Hole, Icarus, Cinderella, Oedipus. A flat line can mean emotionally muted prose. It reads word choice only — no irony or negation.

Median Chapter Length

WHAT IT MEASURES

LEARN MORE

Chapter-length consistency — each chapter against the median, plus its reading time.

The median chapter length sets a $\pm 25\%$ band; chapters outside it are flagged. Reading time divides each chapter's words by 250 — average adult fiction reading speed.

Uneven lengths are not wrong, but a chapter far shorter or longer than its neighbours jars the reader's rhythm. Consistent lengths feed the 'just one more chapter' pull.

Cliffhanger Score

How 'hooky' each chapter's final line is, plus an overall average across scored chapters.

The last written scene's closing sentence earns points for an open question, unresolved dialogue, an ellipsis trail-off, an exclamation, and short-punchy brevity; scores average to a 0–100 rating.

Strong hooks pull readers on; a run of soft endings mid-book is where readers put a book down. Not every chapter needs a cliffhanger — this scores the closing line alone, so read flagged chapters in context.

Avg Scene Words

WHAT IT MEASURES	Scene-level pacing — average scene length, with every written scene's word count in reading order.
HOW IT MEASURES	Scenes are plotted in narrative sequence (chapter order, then scene order); the average is words ÷ written scenes.
HOW TO INTERPRET	Watch for drift: scenes that steadily bloat as the book goes on, or a dip near the end that signals a rushed finish. Varied scene lengths with no runaway climb read as healthy rhythm.

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

How often each tracked character is named across the whole book.
Every mention of a character's name or nickname is counted across all scene text (case-insensitive, whole-word).
The lead should dominate; a long tail of rarely-named characters may be underused or mergeable. A character you consider major but who sits low is a flag worth a look.

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

Which characters do the talking, and whether they sound distinct.
Each quoted line is attributed to the nearest character name within ~120 characters; per character it tallies lines, words, average line length, vocabulary breadth, and favourite words.
Near-identical Avg/Line and Vocabulary across characters can mean everyone 'sounds the same' — distinct voices usually diverge. The quietest main character (flagged below) may be underused. Attribution is a proximity heuristic, so read tagless back-and-forth with care.

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

Where each main character appears across the book — and how much of it the lead carries.
Each chapter's text is scanned for every character's name and nicknames; the grid shows mentions per chapter, and Lead Coverage is the top character's chapters-present out of all chapters.
Read a character's row of chapters left to right: a run of dashes is someone who drops off the page for several chapters — often a subplot gone cold. A character in every chapter may be crowding others out.

WHAT IT MEASURES	Which characters actually share the page together.
HOW IT MEASURES	For every scene the set of characters present is recorded; each pair's cell counts the scenes both appear in (the diagonal is each character's own scene count).
HOW TO INTERPRET	Empty cells between major characters reveal pairs your story never puts together — sometimes deliberate, sometimes a missed relationship. If two leads never share a scene, consider whether a confrontation or alliance would strengthen the book.

👁 AI Signals

Probabilistic only. These signals reflect statistical patterns from AI-detection research — no method is definitive, and formal or heavily-edited human writing regularly scores AI-like. Use as self-reflection, not proof of authorship. Higher scores (0–10) mean more AI-like; accuracy improves past ~1,000 words.

Overall Assessment

4.4 / 10 · Mixed Signals

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

A single 0–10 estimate of how AI-like your prose reads, averaged across six independent signals.

The mean of the six signal scores below, each 0–10 where higher = more AI-like.

Under 2 reads strongly human; 2–4 likely human; 4–6 mixed; 6–8 AI-adjacent; 8+ likely AI. Formal, technical, or heavily-edited human writing regularly scores high — treat as self-reflection, never proof of authorship.

Sentence Rhythm

2.6 / 10

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

Whether your sentence and paragraph lengths vary the way human writing does ('burstiness').

Composite of sentence-length SD (50%), lag-1 sentence autocorrelation (30%), and paragraph-length SD (20%), flipped so uniform prose scores high.

AI text tends toward unnaturally even sentence and paragraph lengths with higher sequential patterning. A high score means smooth, uniform rhythm — alternate short and long sentences to lower it.

SENTENCE RHYTHM — INPUTS

SIGNAL	VALUE
Sentence Length SD	20.5 words
Avg Sentence Length	22.2 words
Sentence Autocorrelation	0.25
Paragraph Length SD	88.9 words

Scene Consistency

4.5 / 10

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

How flat your readability stays from scene to scene.

Derived from readability volatility — the scene-to-scene standard deviation of Flesch Reading Ease — flipped so flatter scores high.

AI-generated content stays suspiciously consistent; human writers vary tone, complexity, and pace. A high score means little variation — let tense and quiet scenes read differently.

SCENE CONSISTENCY — INPUTS

SIGNAL	VALUE
Readability Volatility	±13.7 Flesch

Lexical Entropy

3.9 / 10

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

How predictable your word choices are.

Composite of Shannon lexical entropy (60%) and MATTR vocabulary diversity (40%), flipped so predictable diction scores high.

AI systems optimize for high-probability words, lowering both entropy and variety. A high score means predictable diction — reach for more varied, specific words.

LEXICAL ENTROPY — INPUTS

Shannon Lexical Entropy	9.98 bits
Vocab Diversity (MATTR)	54.5%

Hapax Richness

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

LEARN MORE

How many words you use exactly once — a human fingerprint.

From the hapax ratio (single-use words ÷ total words), flipped so few one-off words scores high.

Idiosyncratic, rare vocabulary is characteristically human; AI reuses high-frequency words. A high score means few unique one-off choices.

Hapax Ratio (single-use words)	3.5%

Phrase Variety

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

How often you repeat the same two-word combinations.

From the share of unique bigrams — consecutive word pairs that occur only once — flipped so repetitive prose scores high.

Formulaic or templated prose repeats phrases; more unique bigrams suggests original composition. A high score flags recurring stock phrasing.

5.5 / 10

PHRASE VARIETY – INPUTS

SIGNAL	VALUE
Unique Bigrams (word pairs)	54.3%

Transition Density

WHAT IT MEASURES

HOW IT MEASURES

HOW TO INTERPRET

How heavily you lean on AI-typical connectives and sentence-opening transitions.

Composite of transition density per 1,000 words and the rate of sentences that open with a transition (Furthermore, In addition, As a result...), flipped so heavy use scores high.

High density and a high sentence-open rate are both strong AI signals. A high score means frequent formal connectives — cut or vary them.
